Chairman and Director's Report

DEAR FRIENDS:

In these early years of our second century, the Toledo Museum of Art continues its dynamic role in the lives of our community members and in the national and international realm of art and architecture. The 2005–2006 Fiscal Year was especially noteworthy in that we made final preparations for the opening of our highly anticipated Glass Pavilion—the physical culmination of the Founders of the Second Century capital campaign. Thanks to the hard work of the Museum family of Board members, staff, volunteers, and donors, the Toledo Museum of Art has truly entered its second century in style.

BUILDING:

As the Glass Pavilion began to take shape on Monroe Street, public interest began to rise proportionately. During May's Venetian Ball, more than 500 major donors enjoyed the first look at the progress made inside the Glass Pavilion, raising more than $700,000 for Museum operations, exhibitions, and programs. This exclusive preview became truly exceptional when Venetian glass master Lino Tagliapietra christened the Glass Pavilion's main hot shop and created an exquisite Dinosaur sculpture before the marveling audience.

STRENGTHENING:

Inside the main Museum building, nearly 340,000 visitors graced our galleries during the 2005–2006 Fiscal Year. Notably, our special exhibition Louis Comfort Tiffany: Artist for the Ages dazzled more than 30,000 guests. Newly acquired works of art strengthened the Museum collection, including Marisol's sculptural installation The Party (1965), Jean-Siméon Chardin's newly discovered pair of masterpieces entitled The Washerwoman and The Woman Drawing Water at the Cistern (about 1733–39), and the Apollo Society's 2006 gift of a rare 17th-century French glass Medallion with a Portrait of King Louis XIV.

CONNECTING:

The Museum's commitment to entice and engage diverse audiences continues to show results. On June 17, 2006, the Museum and its Committee for Cultural Diversity presented our second Juneteenth Celebration, which attracted nearly 4,000 visitors to the Museum for a day of musical performances, public gallery tours, hands-on activities, storytelling, demonstrations, and more. Based on the success of this program, we fully expect to see continued growth in attendance at the 2007 celebration.

Introducing art to our community also remained a priority during the 2005–2006 Fiscal Year. Our School of Art and Design's outreach partnerships continued to provide satellite art classes for underprivileged children at the Sofía Quintero Cultural Center and the Boys and Girls Club. The Lucas County Court of Common Pleas also partnered with the Museum to offer glassmaking classes to juvenile offenders, providing them with a constructive outlet for self-expression. This successful outreach program was nominated for a 2007 Governor's Award for the Arts in Ohio.

The Toledo Museum of Art concluded Fiscal Year 2005–2006 in a position of great potential by preparing for the opening of the Glass Pavilion, strengthening our collection, and fostering relationships with new audiences and visitors. Propelling this momentum is our commitment to the Museum's mission—to integrate art into the lives of people—for another century and beyond.

We recognize and appreciate your support,

George M. Jones, III

Financial Statement

Late in 2005, the American Association of Museums declared 2006 the Year of the Museum to "recognize and celebrate the contributions of American museums as they serve communities, nations, and the world." Today—as for more than a century—the Toledo Museum of Art actively seeks to serve and improve our community through the power of art. Because we are committed to providing accessibility to our collection and to arts education for everyone, the Museum provides free admission, outreach art classes for underserved youth, free school tours for nearly 30,000 students annually, and much more.

In order to provide these services, the Museum generated nearly $12.5 million in revenue—a 5% increase from the previous Fiscal Year. Since the Museum accepts no city or county tax dollars, we must instead rely on the generosity and support of our visitors and members, both individual and corporate. During the 2005–2006 Fiscal Year, financial gifts, membership dues, foundation grants, corporate sponsorships, and testamentary gifts contributed 19% of our annual budget—up 3% from the year before. Investment income provided more than half of operating revenues, while the remaining 21% was earned through the Museum Store featuring Collector's Corner, the School of Art and Design, and the Museum Café.

While Museum earnings and fundraising exceeded the previous year, our operating costs—like those of businesses and organizations nationwide—suffered several disproportionate increases. Not only did energy costs soar, but the price of employee benefits also continued to rise, particularly in the areas of health care and pensions. Under these circumstances, the Museum experienced a shortfall of less than 3% for the 2005–2006 Fiscal Year.

Though financially challenging, the 2005–2006 Fiscal Year was one of building for the Toledo Museum of Art—building the new Glass Pavilion, building relationships with new and long time supporters, and building upon the reputation as our region's cornerstone of culture. It is with this foundation that we move further ahead into our second century and continue to increase the services and programs we provide to our community.
